7 DAYS TO

ABUNDANT THINKING

Rewire Your Scarcity Brain Using Neuroscience

RICH ABBOTT
WealthDawn
2026

INTRODUCTION: YOUR SCARCITY BRAIN

Your brain wasn't designed for abundance. It was designed for survival.

10,000 years ago, scarcity thinking kept your ancestors alive. The ones who hoarded resources and assumed the worst survived. The optimistic ones didn't.

That ancient wiring is still running your financial decisions today.

But here's the breakthrough: Your brain is neuroplastic. It rewires based on what you focus on. Scarcity thinking isn't permanent—it's just your current programming.

WHAT YOU'LL LEARN IN 7 DAYS:

- Day 1: Why your brain defaults to scarcity
- Day 2: How your RAS filter controls reality
- Day 3: Pattern interrupts that rewire neural pathways
- Day 4: Installing the abundance pathway permanently
- Day 5: Making decisions from abundance
- Day 6: Rewiring your money relationships
- Day 7: Your complete 60-day transformation protocol

HOW TO USE THIS GUIDE:

Read one day per day. Do the quick exercise. Track what changes. After 7 days, decide if you want the complete 60-day system.

Let's begin.

DAY 1: THE SCARCITY BRAIN

Your brain scans for threats 5x more than opportunities. This isn't a character flaw—it's neuroscience.

THREE SCARCITY MECHANISMS:

1. NEGATIVITY BIAS
Your amygdala (fear center) processes negative information faster and stronger than positive information. You notice what could go wrong before you see what could go right.

Example: Someone compliments your work 10 times and criticizes once. You remember the criticism.

2. LOSS AVERSION
Losing $100 feels twice as painful as gaining $100 feels good. Your brain overweights risk and underweights opportunity.

Example: You avoid investing in yourself because you focus on the cost, not the return.

3. SCARCITY PERCEPTION
Your brain assumes resources are limited. When someone else succeeds, it feels like there's less for you.

Example: A colleague gets promoted and you feel threatened instead of inspired.

THE RESULT:

You unconsciously:
- Focus on what you don't have instead of what you do
- See obstacles before opportunities
- Feel threatened by others' success
- Assume "there's never enough"
- Make decisions from fear instead of possibility

THE BREAKTHROUGH:

Your brain is neuroplastic. Scarcity thinking is just your current programming. Programming can be changed.

QUICK EXERCISE:

Write down your top 3 automatic scarcity thoughts. The ones that run on repeat.

Examples:
"I can't afford that"
"That's too risky"
"There's never enough"

Just awareness begins the rewiring.

DAY 2: YOUR RAS FILTER

Your brain receives 11 million bits of information per second. Your conscious mind processes 50.

The Reticular Activating System (RAS) decides what you see and what gets deleted.

HOW YOUR RAS WORKS:

Your RAS is programmed by your beliefs. If you believe money is scarce, your RAS filters out abundance evidence and highlights scarcity evidence.

You literally don't see opportunities right in front of you.

CLASSIC EXAMPLE:

You buy a red Toyota. Suddenly you see red Toyotas everywhere.

Did red Toyotas multiply? No. Your RAS just started noticing them because they became relevant.

Same with money:

SCARCITY RAS:
Notices: layoffs, economic doom, price increases, competition
Confirms: "Money is hard to get"

ABUNDANCE RAS:
Notices: opportunities, success stories, wealth creation, strategic moves
Confirms: "Money is available"

Same world. Different filter.

THE BREAKTHROUGH:

You can reprogram your RAS by deliberately focusing attention. When you consistently look for abundance, your RAS starts automatically finding it.

QUICK EXERCISE:

For the next 24 hours, actively look for evidence of abundance.

Write down 5 examples:
1. Money being made
2. Opportunities available
3. Wealth being created
4. People succeeding
5. Resources multiplying

Your RAS will shift.

DAY 3: PATTERN INTERRUPTS

Your brain runs on neural pathways—like hiking trails in the woods.

The more you walk a trail, the more defined it becomes. Eventually, your feet follow automatically without thinking.

Scarcity thinking works the same way. The pathway is so worn that thoughts run automatically:

"I can't afford that"
"That's too expensive"
"There's never enough"

These aren't conscious decisions. They're automatic neural firings.

THE 3-STEP INTERRUPT:

STEP 1: CATCH THE THOUGHT
The moment you notice scarcity language, pause. Awareness breaks automaticity.

STEP 2: PHYSICALLY INTERRUPT
Snap a rubber band. Clap your hands. Stand up. Move your body.

This disrupts the neural pathway mid-firing.

STEP 3: REPLACE IMMEDIATELY
Don't just delete. Replace with abundance language:

"I can't afford that" → "How can I afford that?"
"That's too expensive" → "Is this worth creating value for?"
"There's never enough" → "There's always more available"

WHY THIS WORKS:

Every time you interrupt a scarcity pathway and activate an abundance pathway instead, you're literally rewiring your brain.

Neuroscience: Neurons that fire together, wire together. Neurons that don't fire together, don't wire together.

QUICK EXERCISE:

Interrupt 10 scarcity thoughts today.

Catch them. Disrupt physically. Replace with abundance.

Keep count. Notice what happens.

DAY 4: PATHWAY INSTALLATION

Pattern interruption is defense. Pathway installation is offense.

You don't just want to stop scarcity thinking. You want abundance thinking to become your default.

HOW NEURAL PATHWAYS FORM:

REPETITION: 30-60 days of consistent activation
EMOTION: Feelings accelerate learning
VISUALIZATION: Your brain can't distinguish real from vividly imagined
ACTION: Thoughts + behavior cement wiring

YOUR 10-MINUTE DAILY PROTOCOL:

MINUTES 1-3: ABUNDANCE EVIDENCE
Write down 3 pieces of evidence that abundance exists.
Money you earned. Opportunities you saw. Value you created.

MINUTES 4-6: ABUNDANCE VISUALIZATION
Close your eyes. Vividly imagine operating from abundance.
See yourself making confident decisions. Feel the emotion of having more than enough.

MINUTES 7-8: ABUNDANCE DECLARATION
Say out loud:
"There is more than enough. I create value. Money flows to me. I see opportunities everywhere."

MINUTES 9-10: ABUNDANCE ACTION
Take one small action from abundance instead of scarcity.
Could be reaching out. Could be investing. Could be raising prices.

WHY THIS WORKS:

You're activating the abundance pathway multiple times daily with emotion, visualization, and action.

30 days: Pathway becomes dominant
60 days: Pathway runs automatically

QUICK EXERCISE:

Do the 10-minute protocol right now.

Set a daily reminder to do it every morning.

DAY 5: ABUNDANCE DECISIONS

Most financial decisions are made from scarcity—even when people have money.

SCARCITY DECISION FRAMEWORK:

"Can I afford this?"
"What if it doesn't work?"
"Is this safe?"
"Will I run out?"

These questions train your brain to focus on loss, risk, depletion.

ABUNDANCE DECISION FRAMEWORK:

"What's the ROI on this?"
"How can I make this work?"
"What opportunities does this create?"

"How do I create more value?"

These questions train your brain to focus on creation, growth, multiplication.

REAL EXAMPLE:

Opportunity: $2,000 course teaching $50K skills

SCARCITY: "I can't afford $2,000. Too risky."
Brain response: Shut down. Protect. Avoid.

ABUNDANCE: "This course is worth $50K+. How do I find $2,000?"
Brain response: Problem-solve. Strategize. Pursue.

Same opportunity. Completely different neural response.

THE SHIFT:

Stop asking permission questions ("Can I?")
Start asking possibility questions ("How can I?")

Stop asking safety questions ("What if it fails?")
Start asking opportunity questions ("What if it works?")

Stop asking depletion questions ("Will I run out?")
Start asking creation questions ("How do I generate more?")

QUICK EXERCISE:

List 3 financial decisions you need to make this week.

For each one, write:
1. The scarcity question you'd normally ask
2. The abundance question you'll ask instead
3. How the decision changes

DAY 6: RELATIONSHIP REWIRING

Scarcity thinking doesn't just affect your wallet. It affects every relationship.

HOW SCARCITY DAMAGES RELATIONSHIPS:

WITH MONEY:
You see it as an adversary. Something to fight, chase, worry about.
Money becomes stress instead of a tool.

WITH SUCCESSFUL PEOPLE:

You feel threatened. If they're winning, you're losing.
Their success triggers your scarcity.

WITH OPPORTUNITIES:
You're skeptical, defensive, resistant.
You assume there's a catch. You protect rather than pursue.

WITH YOURSELF:
You doubt your capability. Question if you deserve wealth.
You sabotage when things go well.

HOW ABUNDANCE TRANSFORMS RELATIONSHIPS:

WITH MONEY:
You see it as a partner. A tool that multiplies when used well.
Money becomes energizing instead of exhausting.

WITH SUCCESSFUL PEOPLE:
You feel inspired. Their success proves what's possible.
You seek proximity instead of distance.

WITH OPPORTUNITIES:
You're curious, open, experimental.
You evaluate strategically but pursue confidently.

WITH YOURSELF:
You believe in your capacity to create value.
You expect growth. You allow success without guilt.

THE RELATIONSHIP REWIRE:

STEP 1: Notice your emotional response
When someone succeeds, inspired or threatened?
When money is mentioned, excited or anxious?

STEP 2: Reframe the relationship
"Their success means less for me" → "Their success shows what's possible"
"Money is hard to keep" → "Money multiplies when I create value"
"I don't deserve this" → "I create value and deserve prosperity"

STEP 3: Act from the new frame
Celebrate others' wins. Invest in yourself. Pursue opportunities.

QUICK EXERCISE:

Identify one relationship where scarcity shows up.

Could be with money, a person, or yourself.

Write:
1. The scarcity frame you currently hold
2. The abundance reframe
3. One action you'll take from the new frame today

DAY 7: YOUR 60-DAY TRANSFORMATION PROTOCOL

You've learned the neuroscience. Now you implement it.

Knowledge without implementation is worthless.

YOUR COMPLETE 60-DAY PROTOCOL:

DAILY (10 MINUTES):
- Abundance evidence (3 examples)
- Abundance visualization (3 minutes)
- Abundance declaration (out loud)
- Abundance action (one small step)

THROUGHOUT THE DAY:
- Catch 10+ scarcity thoughts
- Interrupt them physically
- Replace with abundance language
- Notice what your RAS shows you

WEEKLY:
- Review your abundance evidence journal
- Identify one relationship to rewire
- Take one abundance-based risk
- Evaluate decisions: scarcity or abundance?

THE 60-DAY TIMELINE:

DAYS 1-10: Consciously working at it. Feels effortful.

DAYS 11-30: Starting to feel natural. Catching scarcity faster.

DAYS 31-60: Abundance thinking becomes automatic. New default.

After 60 days, you won't recognize your old patterns. Scarcity will feel foreign. Abundance will feel normal.

YOUR 7-DAY CHALLENGE:

Commit to 7 consecutive days of the 10-minute daily protocol.

No skipping. Every morning. Before you check your phone.

Track it. Notice what changes.

READY FOR THE COMPLETE SYSTEM?

The Abundance Algorithm is your complete 60-day brain rewiring protocol.

Daily exercises. Progressive challenges. Permanent transformation.

Get it here: RichAbbott.com/abundance-algorithm

---

To your abundance,
RICH ABBOTT